A Wholesome Bill of Fare for Young Ladies. The Vassar Female College at Poughkeepsie, New York, has gained considerable reputation throughout the country for the peculiar style of mental and physical training in vogue there. The young ladies are educated more after the heroid style there than at most female instituit is claimed that a party of them visiting West Point lately did not scare worth a cent when surrounded by the cadets on a charge. This sturdy and heroic element diet on which they are fed. The quesgrown so great?" And so we may mencement exercises at the College gave the newspaper reporters an opportunity of making some inquiry into the manner in which the subsistence depart-One of them interviewed the steward, and if he correctly reports the answers of that seem that the dietetic philosophers have no disciples at Poughkeepsie. The 430 ladies of the College take their meals at one time in the same dining room. Thirty minutes are allowed for breakfast, fortyfive for dinner, and thirty minutes for food are generally served for dinner. The milk and vegetables are all the products of the College farm, milk being used very freely for drinking morning and night, and used also in large quantities in cooking and in bread. Three hundred and fifty every day. One hundred pounds of fresh morning, with occasional consignments of ice cream. At breakfast 150 pounds of beefsteak are eaten, and 250 pounds of roast beef or mutton at dinner. When three hundred and eighty pounds are required. The daily consumption of bread the stereotyped cry of "hurry up the cakes!" They give them to the fair consumers hot and fast, and they eat on the average 2,000 pan-cakes at one sitting, to make which cleans out a barrel of batter. They are good pie-enters also, consuming one hundred and twenty-five or thirty ples at one meal. When they have apple pie, a barrel and a half of apples are used, while for cherry pie two bushels of the fruit are required. Just now it is strawberry time, and every night at tea they eat 180 quarts of strawberries. They are regaled with ice cream twice a week, and at dinner use 160 quarts of that luxury. When oysters are good, a half barrel of solid oysters is used for one meal, and 120 quarts of milk are put with them. They eat 1,200 eggs at breakfast daily. supply comes from the farms along the line of the Poughkeepsie and Eastern Railroad. Coming to coffee, they use the mere matter of fifty gallons for breakfast, rel of sugar is consumed daily in yarious ways. Oatmeal is put upon the table every morning at breakfast, and they consume eighty pounds of it daily. So with cracked wheat, hominy, barley, tapicca, macaroni, &c.

This bill of fare rather throws into the shade the boarding school diet that is known to the experience of most ladies who have gone from home to be educated. The Financial Resolutions thus far Passed by State Conven-

The Kentucky Republican State Co vention led off with the following resolu-tion in regard to the National finances—

5. We approve the financial policy the administration as set forth by the President and Secretary of the Treasury President and Secretary of the Pressure in their last annual communications to Congress, and we hold that the financial legislation of Congress should be ateadly directed to a resumption of specie payments at the earliest date consistent with the business interests of the country.

The Pennsylvania Republican Convention followed with the following resolution—vis:

8. Free banking, a safe and uniform national currency, adjustable to the growing wants of the business interests of the country, and a steady reduction of the national debt.

The Ohio Republican Convention

passed the following resolution:

2d. That policy of finance should be steadily pursued which, without unnecessary shock to business or trade, will ultimately equalize the purchasing capacity of the coin and paper dollar. The Ohio Democratic Convention opened the campaign as follows:

Sth. That the contraction of the party, and the further contraction proed by it with a view to the forced posed by it with a view to the forced re-sumption of specie payments, has already brought disaster to the business of the country, and threatens it with general bankruptey and ruin. We demand that this policy be abandoned, and that the volume of the currency be made and kept equal to the wants of trade, leaving the restoration of legal tenders to a par with gold to be brought about by promoting the industries of the people, and not by destroying them.

The Chicago Tribune (Rep.) thus cononcludes an editorial on the platform of

"If this party attain power, it will find itself unable to maintain a government with money worth but one-half its face value; having banished specie it will meet the difficulty of paying the interest and principal of the debt in coin by paying the principal in paper, and then, as was done with the old Continental money and the Confederate States manay, requiand the Contectat States money, reput diate the paper. A few simple illustrations, stated with reference to a case of this character, may enable you to understand sufficiently for the present purpose the difference between direct, circumstantial and pressurptive evidence. If a witness should testify that the wife sent the actual commission of the sexual act charged, that would be what is called direct and positive evidence. If a witness should testify that the wife and the paramour had cocupied the same room all night in such a manner as tended to the conclusion that they had slept together, or if he had admitted his guilt, that would be circumstantial evidence. If to a letter received by the defendant explicitly charging him with adultery he answered, simply saying I am sorry and hope to be forgiven, or if, on being thus charged in a conversation by one having a an interest in the matter, he had made no snawer the state of the scale of the same room that they had slept together, or if, on being thus charged in a conversation by one having a an interest in the matter, he had made no snawer the state of the scale and the surroundance of the second that is not thus act, those questions will give you not rouble; but if you indust the surroundance of the scale and the surroundance of the surrounda stantial evidence. The intimacy and intercourse which is allowed between a married woman and her legal adviser, physician or pastor is greater than that which would be considered proper or be-coming between a woman and a man holding no such special relation. That principle applies here, and the defendant is entitled to the benefit of it. We are wont entitled to the benefit of it. We are wont to say that all suitors are treated alike, and in most respects they are, but yet in a case of this character, a man grown old in prayer and plous service has, prima facie, the benefit of a presumption which the mere man of the world has not.

we have nefore us to evidence which could support the charges of conspiracy and blackmail, and if we had the defendant's position would remain the same, if innocent, to be declared as independent of such artifices. The nearest charges to be that he had made improper proposals or advances, and had robbed the plaintiff of a rich inheritance in the love of his wife, and whether, coupled with these charges, he believed that he had wronged the plaintiff by favoring a family separation and dismissal by Mr. Bowen, and for those reasons spoke, wrote, acted and suffered as described. approach to blackmail would seem to have arisen between Tilton and Howen, if the former did threaten to publish a card injurious to the latter unless money were paid; but we have no interest in that question. Moreover he did not publish the card, nor was he paid until after due course of investigation. It seems that the covenant of Bowen and Tilton in respect to compensation for service on two papers provided for certain payments on a termination of employave arisen between Tilton and Bowen the solution of what followed is easy, but if the wrong or offenses, actual or imputed, were of the other character stated, then a just apprehension of the relation between the defendant's state of mind and his conduct involves several considerations: What was his personal estimate of his relation to the church, to the world, to literature, and the reputation he should leave behind him; what his conception of the nature and gravity of the charge of impure solicitations, of alienating a woman's love from her husband, and of the effect of such an accusation if publicly made; what was his notion of the extent to which Tilton had been injured as a journalist and in his family, and as to their means of subsidence?

Wheat—The reports clearly indicate that the average of wheat this year in the Western States is much less than last year. But three reports indicate an increased average, while twice as many show but one-half as much or even less. In Wisconsin no reports show an increase and but two an equal acreage, while seven show not more than one-half. In Iowa nearly the same condition is shown. In Michigan the acreage was not materially reduced. In some of the newer States an increased acreage is reported. As to condition the reports are not unfavorable, a majority of all indicating at least an average condition. Michigan makes a poor showing; Illinois stands well; Wisconain and Iowa very large; but the general average is not bad.

Corn—Undoubtedly the acreage planted in the West was larger than in any former year. In Illinois the reports show a larger acreage than last year; increase 20 to 25 per cent. In Iowa the same is true, with several reports of an increase of 50 per cent. Wisconain is not a great corn State, but shows an increase of at least 25 per cent in acreage. Michigan and Missouri also show a considerable increase. The reports of condition are not so good as is desired, but it is probable that many of the unfavorable reports indicate the lateness of the crop rather than the bad condition otherwise. Bearing in mind the comparative quantities grown in the different States, our reports show a prospect at the mid-wise. Bearing in mind the comparative quantities grown in the different States, our reports show a prospect at the mid-die of June of about four-fifths of an av-die of June of about four-fittle of an average crop.

Onts—The acreage in oats is considerably increased over that of last year, and there is a general prospect of at least a full average crop. Illinois gives several reports of less than an average condition. Michigan, Wisconsin, Lows, etc., in nearly all cases show good prospects.

Barley—Illinois shows reduced acreage and Iowa, Wisconsin and Nebraska an increase. The prospect for the crop, as a whole, is below an average.

Inacet Injuries—In very few cases is there an increase of injury from insects, compared with last year. This, of course, does not include the grasshopper districts, but there are many more cases in which the grasshoppers have done less injury than last year than where they have done more. Chinch and potato bugs are very institution many niess but on the more. Chinch and potato bugs are very plentiful in many places, but on the whole not so numero
